A Training-Management-System

When new employees start in your company, you have to spend time and resources to provide them with training on the internal work processes.

Most newcomers are often given documents to read, in order to acquire knowledge. It is rarely checked that everything has been read and understood. This can make future mistakes due to lack of understanding much more likely.

For many projects, the project managers are responsible for the training and development of their project teams. Often there are documents (e.g. manuals) that have to be read before an employee may perform certain activities. Project managers will rarely have a clear and up-to-date overview of the state of the education and training of their project teams.

TRAMANSYS® effectively supports the whole training process. TRAMANSYS® is a training management system that provides, with easy-to-use facilities, all training material for training and development in four languages (ge, en, fr, it). Also, it gives a quick overview of the level of training status of your staff and project teams.

TRAMANSYS® is a FileMaker 13 solution.

The Modules of TRAMANSYS® in Detail

The Course-Management

Construct courses for your employees with your training materials, documents, educational films etc. Set up a test for the acquired knowledge for each course. Edit the templates for certificates and e-mail notifications.

The Role-Management

Insert all existing roles for your organization. Assign courses to each role, that generally need to be completed by employees who hold those roles.

The Curriculum-Management

Create curricula based on courses for specific areas of knowledge, and specify time ranges for completion of those curricula.

The User-Management

Assign roles and manager to your employees. Assign curricula and courses specifically tailored to the needs of each employee. Check the training status of each employee with just a few clicks.

The Team-Management

Set up your project teams for your employees. Assign relevant courses to the teams. Create an overall report for the training status for each team.

The Material-Management

Provide your training materials, documents, educational films etc. for the setup of the courses. The employees will only have to study material once - even if it appears in more than one of their assigned courses.

My Training Plan

Your employees can also see an overview of their own curricula and training status. They will complete each course by study of the relevant training material and subsequent completion of a test. A training certificate is automatically generated to certify the successful completion of each course. As well as assignment of courses by the line manager, TRAMANSYS® also supports self-assignment of voluntary courses by the employee. Even after completion of a course, each employee can access the training material again.
